

What is MoVe?

The group "MoVe – Miteinander ohne Vorurteile" was founded in 2015 by the Forum der Kulturen Stuttgart e. V. (Forum of Cultures). Our project work is aimed at individuals motivated to work together in a group to develop creative actions and campaigns against racism and discrimination. At MoVe, activists with different cultural backgrounds and perspectives get involved.

What does MoVe stand for?

- “active against racism and discrimination”
- “making a difference together”
- “developing creative campaigns”
- “learning new perspectives”
- “explaining the impact of racism”
- “engaging consciously rather than remaining passive”
- “demonstrating civil courage”
- “uncovering hidden racism”
- “strengthening and empowering people”
- “remaining confident”
- “shaping the future and leaving an impact”

Who can participate?

Anyone

- who has experienced racism themselves
 - who wants to stand up for people affected by racism
 - who sees the current social climate developments critically and wants to position themselves against racism

We are convinced that diverse teams are particularly creative. Different backgrounds, experiences and perspectives are welcome.

What are some of MoVe's actions?

On our homepage you will find details about some of our actions and campaigns over the last years.
